

From Hollywood to West Philly: Film & Community Storytelling

November 4, 2017

9:30am -10:30am

Zellerbach Theatre, Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts

3680 Walnut St, Philadelphia, PA 19104

Penn Homecoming Event co-hosted by the Netter Center, Annenberg, & the Class of 1968

In celebration of the Netter Center for Community Partnership's 25th Anniversary—please join Hollywood Producer, Robert Cort, C'68, G'70, WG'74, John L. Jackson, Jr., Dean of the School of Social Policy and Practice, Richard Perry University Professor, and Penn Integrates Knowledge Professor; and Amitanshu Das, Senior Fellow and Director of GSE Films in the Graduate School of Education, for an engaging program and discussion on community-based ethnographic films produced by students from Penn and West Philadelphia through the Center's Academically Based Community Service courses.

ABCS courses taught by Jackson and Das have engaged Penn students and local high school students in co-producing films on schools and communities in Philadelphia. Clips from students' films will be screened and student participants will discuss their work with the audience.

Free and open to the public! Breakfast will be available at 9:00 am.

Register at www.alumni.upenn.edu

